SAD DEATH.

A North Carolinian Perishes of Thirst in a Desert.

We find the following distressing no rative in the Wilmington Star:

The Los Angeles, Cal., Tribine or October 27th contains an account of the finding of the remains of the late J. I. Singletary, (a native of Wilmington, who perished in the desert of Lower Calfornia, while on a prospecting tour. The Telland contains

The Tribune says:
Four miners who got into camp of October 23, from the Cocapa placers, in the desert, found the body of J. F. Single tary, the young lowyer from Los Angeles Desertion by his companious some months ago caused his death from thirst, and the body was discovered only a mile and a half from water.

It was completely munified by the desert heat, in fact perfectly preserved.

The coyotes had mutilated the less a little, but otherwise the remains were in perfect preservation. He had evidently died in a frenzy of agony, as his clothes were scattered all around bins. The safe & Charling Charles are buried the hade when the safe & Saket. buried the body where they

I. E. Singletary was one of the promis-J. E. Singletary was one of the profits-ing young lawyers of Los Angeles, and was connected with the law fran of Anderson, Fitzgerahl & Anderson In the latter part of August Mr. Single-tary went to Lower California on a pros-pecting tour. From Ensemala he pro-ceeded to the Real del Costillo Almes.

Here he met two other experienced miners, and the three started out to gether on a prospecting tour. After proceeding some distance it was suggested that the party separate. All agreed to the proposition. Accordingly, Single tary's two microls set off, they being mounted on horses, while the latter particulal is war in part. The implicit party sued his way on loot. The understanding was that all were to meet at a giver point within six hours, and Singletary was told where he could find a spring on the way, at which to stake his thirst The men on forseback were going to cover a great deal more ground, as they were pursuing a roundabout way.

This was the last ever seen of Single-tary until on the 2d instant, a minor found his withcred, manipied body lying blenching upon the desert. When the men on horseback arrived at the point where they were to meet Singletery he was not there. Instead of instituting a thorough search for him as they should have done, they left him to his fate, and the consequence was he died a most her rible death and in terrible agony

Good Time Together. ATLANTA, Ga., November 15.—The ommittee on laws resumed its report immediately after the convention was called to order, and continued until the hour arrived when Col. L. F. Living-ston, president of the Parmers Allance, was to be received.

was to be received.

A committee was appointed to escort representative tarmers to the hall, and when they returned they had with them, besides Col. Livingston. Judge Henderson, commissioner of agriculture; B. F. Gray, editor of the National Economist. and Harry Brown, editor of the Georgia Farmer. Col. Livingston was received

rith immense applause.
He said that other workhad prevented his studying the objects of the Knights of Labor, but he felt sure that when the convention met at St. Louis December the confederation would be formed, and he also left sure that it would be equally beneficent to both orders. In Powderly's reply he thanked God for the day, and said the day when lar-mers and mechanics should stand said by side and work for the same object, had dways been a dream of his. The entire meeting was most entires astic, and every mention of the confeder ition was received with applause.

We will run two delivery wagons. The necessity for this has been caused by our largely increasing trade. making it impossible to deliver with one wagon. There have been complaints (and justly, too) by some of our customers at not having goods delivered more promptly. With our additional facilities for delivery we hope to increase our already large trade, and promise to meet all competition. Our stock, as heretofore, will be kept up to the highest standard in quality. All goods sold by us guaranteed to be as represented, both in weights and quality.
